

North Star

I must be facing home
if this is the North Star I could just lift my feet and follow this insistent glimmer all the way

Alone among the many,
not shining brightest
but holding motionless
as constellations sweep a circle through the year

*It wears me out
it wears me out
clear enough to show,
near enough to know.*